King Manuel Improves.

The condition of King Manuel, who was shot in the arm and face at the time his father and brother were killed last Saturday, is improving.

The otheral organ, in its issue of today, declares that the funerals of the late King and Crown Prince will be held on Feb. 8 at 16 o'clock in the morning with all the solemnity possible at the royal Pantheon of S. Vincent de Lisbon.

The royal Pantheon of S. Vincent is a massive structure in what is called the Oriental section of Lisbon. In the closters of the venerable and crumbling building repose the bodies of Portuguese monarchs who have ruled during the last two hundred and fifty years, from John IV, to Louis I. Here also the niches contain the remains of many of the famous statesmen, warriors, poets, philosophers and explorers who have flourished in past generations. For many years the main cdince was used as a monastery by the Augustine monks.

It is now the official residence of the Cardinal Patriarch of Lisbon, the residential quarter being connected by gardens and vaulted corridors with the bodies of the monarchs and explorers who have flourished in past generations.
